

ABOUT EMMA CRAWFORD

Emma Crawford, a young woman seeking the mineral springs "cure" from tuberculosis, came to Manitou Springs in the 1800's. In 1891 Emma passed away from sickness and they buried her on top of Red Mountain, fulfilling her dying wish.

After several years of rain and harsh weather conditions, Emma's remains slid down the mountain into the canyon below. The only remnants were her name plate and silver handles from her casket.

In honor of Emma Crawford, Manitou Springs celebrates the fun event of the Emma Crawford Coffin Races annually as a part of our history to be shared with all.
